PARIS FOR SPRING BREAK—
PLUS THREE ACADEMIC CREDITS!

Let us know if you might be interested!

To learn more about SMPA's 3 credit course, "Globalization and the Media," and the Spring Break Paris seminar which is part of the course, please visit (https://smpa.gwu.edu/study-abroad). All GW undergraduate and grad students are welcome.

As one recent participant put it: "The Paris trip was life changing… the trip of a lifetime."

And another student added: "This class was amazing; I made many new friends, and made useful career connections. I would recommend all my friends to take this course."

Students will meet in Paris next March with journalists, media experts, public officials and business leaders—including behind the scenes visits to homes, studios, newsrooms, and offices. Before and after the Spring Break, the course will meet in Washington on most Tuesday evenings from 6:10 to 8:00 pm. The professor for the course and the trip is Lee Huebner.
To indicate your interest in the course—to ask questions—and/or to reserve a place in advance—be sure to write now to Prof. Huebner at huebner@gwu.edu. Note also our upcoming, optional information sessions: At 6 PM and again at 7 PM in room 511 of the SMPA building — ON TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 3, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 10 AND THEN AGAIN ON MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 23 — same hours, same room for all three days.
